

The Yellow Rose

Welcome to “The Artists of Texas.” The site has finally been launched and we are looking forward to starting with the intent of getting our artists in touch with buyers, getting to know each other, learning from each other and networking. We will be running an ad in Texas Monthly soon to let Texas know who we are. There will be other exposure venues to follow.

The site is built to allow you to upload your pictures, up to 30 of them, easily. But if you are having trouble, email us so we can help you. You can also mail or email us your pictures and for a fee of $75.00 we will scan and upload them for you.

Soon we will be asking for unique stories and events passed down to you from your ancestors. Some of these will be used in the novel that will be written online about early days in the history of Texas. It will start in the early 1800’s and follow through to present day Texas.

We have also implemented a forum for you to view tutorials and tips from peers, as well as bestow your own advice. There will also be a section of the forum in which you can post your latest masterpiece and receive criticism and kudos from fellow members, as well as the occasional critique or tip of the hat from many of the well-established masters that will frequent the site. We are currently working on several workshop schedules, and hopefully, an art show for the late summer.

Our advertisers are folks that we know and trust, so look over their products. I’m sure you will recognize, and maybe even be a bit surprised, by some of their names.

We are looking forward to getting to know each of you and making this the year we’ve been waiting on. We have a lot of growing to do and we are looking forward to your suggestions to make this the site that the rest of the world is keeping an eye on.

Thanks from all of us here at “The Artist of Texas”.
